Chino Hills, CA – Daniel Bobadilla has been appointed as the Public Works Director / City Engineer for the City of Chino Hills. In his new role, he will oversee the City’s largest Department that includes the Utilities Operations, Maintenance and Operations, and Engineering Divisions. The Department’s responsibilities encompass street maintenance, water and sanitation operations, parks and landscape operations, facilities and equipment maintenance, storm system operations, engineering, and the Capital Improvement Program. He reported for duty on July 29.

“Daniel is a great addition to our management team,” said City Manager Ben Montgomery. “He has the technical expertise needed for the position, he has over 17 years of experience in the Public Works field, and most importantly he shares the City’s commitment to being responsive to the community.”

Mr. Bobadilla earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from California State Polytechnic University, Pomona; and his Master of Public Administration degree from the University of Southern California. He is certified by the State of California as a Professional Engineer, and is a Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan Practitioner. He started his career as an Associate Civil Engineer for the County of Los Angeles in the Building and Safety, Watershed Management, and Water Resources Divisions. In 2008 he became the Principal Civil Engineer for the City of Azusa. He worked his way through the ranks serving as Assistant Director of Public Works / City Engineer, and assumed the role of Director of Public Works / City Engineer in 2014.

In the City of Azusa he managed major projects including the construction of a $10 million dollar parking structure for Azusa’s Downtown, Metro Gold Line, and Foothill Transit. He also managed storm drain improvements over $5 million, and the City’s $7 million Sewer Master Plan.

Mr. Bobadilla and his wife Violeta have two daughters. He enjoys coaching his daughters’ sports teams and golfing in his spare time.
